READY TO ROLL – WALTER MASON HAS BUILT A MARBLE RUN FOR BIKINI BERLIN

Berlin-based inventor Walter Mason is renowned for his remarkable, record-breaking marble runs. From 17 July until 20 August 2017, one of his 100-metre-long constructions can be admired at BIKINI BERLIN – and visitors to the concept shopping mall can get involved. All you have to do is collect one of the marbles for free from the info point and then send it on its journey from the first floor. From a lofty height, the colourful marbles will roll down before finally circling their way to the end of the run in the centre of the ground floor. In a relaxed atmosphere, young and old visitors alike can spend time around the course, which promises wide smiles and hours of fun.
